The most popular way to get your hands on these is to purchase them from the official website of a major music industry brand. It's a fun way of knowing that your favorite indie or pop star has an official merch partner and could possibly be worth supporting.. When it comes to getting your hands on these, I suggest you first make sure they're still available. If not, you're about to pay for something you probably shouldn't. (If you do choose to get these, please note that you may be charged and/or change the colors of your shirt on the receipt in some cases, so it's not always ideal.) After that, it's more about how you see the shirt in relation to what you can afford (if that is a major consideration, like if you have a smaller budget than what your fellow hipster types have on hand). It's all very personal, folks. I've got nothing big, but it's worth your time. It just takes effort..
